

ABOUT the CCADA

The Cape Cod Antique Dealers Association, Inc. (CCADA) is a community of antique and fine arts dealers dedicated to bringing to the public an awareness of and an appreciation for antiques. Our aim is to increase and enrich the knowledge of our clientele while offering a wide range of fine quality antiques for sale.

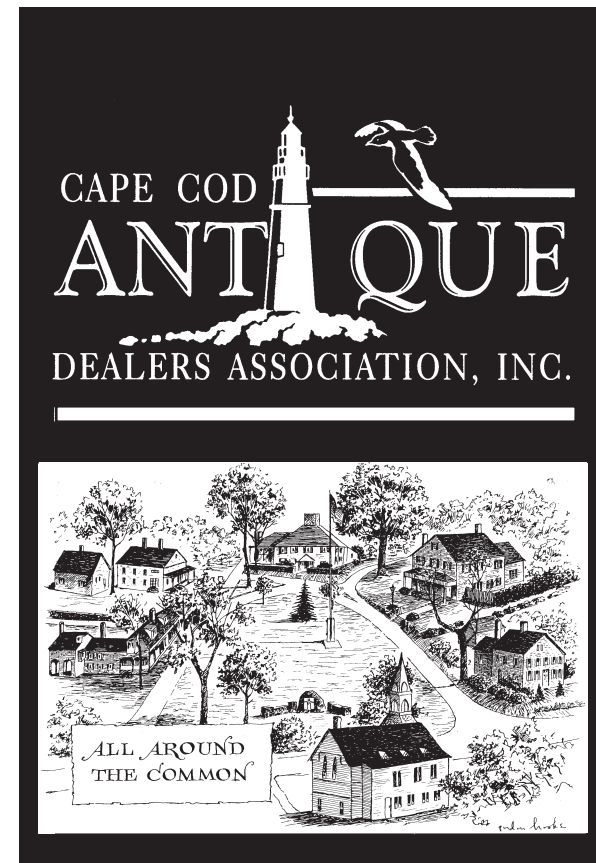

The CCADA is engaged in a wide variety of activities and services that support these two goals of increasing knowledge and making fine antiques available for sale. CCADA's education-related efforts include the following:

- Awarding two scholarships annually to Cape Cod Community College graduates who are continuing their education in history, fine arts or decorative arts.
- Holding an annual Spring Antiques Seminar, open to the public, providing education and enrichment on specific topics in the world of antiques.
- Providing monies through the CCADA Cultural Enrichment Fund for Cape Cod organizations to promote a better understanding of the Cape's history and heritage.
- Working in partnership with local historical societies to help Cape communities enrich and preserve their history also through the Cultural Enrichment Fund.

CCADA services that support the buying public include the following:

- Hosting the website, CCADA.com, to facilitate antiquing on Cape Cod. The site includes a calendar listing all the shows/auctions being held throughout the Cape, and a complete listing of members with contact information.
- Publishing a directory of all CCADA dealers and businesses.
- Hosting two of the Cape's premier antique shows: the one-day Spring Antiques Show and Sale in early June, and the multi-day Cape Cod Antique Show in early August. Many of the organization's members can be found at other shows and events throughout the region as well.
